Org Manager Addendum

A short companion for people with the Org Manager (org admin) flag

Internal coalition use only · Not for public distribution

What This Addendum Covers

This is a short, separate companion to the main Comms Hub User Manual, written specifically for people who've been given Org Manager access. It's meant to be forwarded on its own, without the rest of the manual, to anyone who's just been set up with this.

Everything else about using the Comms Hub — Message Machine, Research, Rapid Response, Rebuttal Generator, Storms, and so on — works exactly the same for you as for any other member. This addendum only covers what's different: the small set of member-management tools available to you for your own organization.

1 — What Org Manager Access Gives You

As an Org Manager, you can manage membership for your own organization directly, without needing to go through our team for routine changes:

- Invite a new member into your org.
- Disable or re-enable an existing member of your org.
- Grant a member of your org visibility into another org's Research data, if that's ever useful for your work.

This access is scoped to your own organization — it keeps things simple and secure as more orgs join the Hub. If you ever run into something you need that falls outside this (a role change, a cross-org request, anything unusual), just reach out to our team and we'll take care of it.

2 — Where to Find Your Panel

Log in to the Comms Hub as you normally would, then click your avatar (your initial, top right) to open your account menu. From there, select My Org — that's your organization's member panel.

What you'll see there

- A list of your org's current members, with an option to disable or re-enable each one.
- An invite box to bring a new person into your org — this sends them the same invitation email as any other new member.
- A control for granting a member visibility into another org's Research data, separate from their actual org membership.

Tip

If My Org ever looks empty or shows an error instead of your org's people, that's a setup issue on our end, not something you did — just let us know and we'll sort it out.

3 — A Note on Daily Limits

Every account has a daily cap on how many times it can use the AI tools (Message Machine, Rapid Response, Rebuttal, Storms, etc.). This isn't something you control from your panel — it's mentioned here so you know what's going on if a member of your team asks about it.

The cap exists to protect the product from spam and runaway automated use, not to limit any particular person or org. We're still evaluating whether the current levels are set right, so if members on your team are regularly running into their limit and it's slowing down real work, let us know — that's genuinely useful for us to hear, and we can look at adjusting it.
